User Story: Sharing Statistics

As a user, I want to be able to share my post game analytics with anyone I wish with ease. In addition to having the ability to share post match data, I would like to be able to disperse all my relevant statistics to different applications in an easy and organized manner allowing friends or teammates to view pinpointed data/graphs. As discord is at the forefront of sharing/communicating, I don't want to have to go out of my way to share my information through a unique third party platform. I would like to see a non complex way of sharing this information through commonly used platforms.